

The Vienna Flat

by Formvision

The sleek look of automotive lines, combined with the ambient created by stone-like furniture pieces and the attention to music, creates an unshakable influence of the bold masculine energy forever engraved into the resident's memories, reminiscent of the taste of strong brandy and the smell of cigarettes on a cold winter night.

This flat's concept is based on the spirit that the city of Vienna has been carrying through centuries. It is a place of strong culture and beauty, of great musicians and harmony. It's where classic values clash with modernism creating the most outstanding outcomes, one of which is The Vienna Flat, gilded and furnished in the same essence.

The stonewalls of this flat give off masculine energy, with bold, harsh lines and the colour black, making it seem as though it is situated in the inside of a cliff and carving excitement into the otherwise classically luxurious interior. The lustrous marble floors compliment the edgy, darker sides of the spaces and create contrasting balance, as well as a juncture between the solid and the smooth materials.

The musical component is captured and expressed through the Symphony luxury speakers that are a product of a partnership with Luxury Sound, an award-winning company, whose speakers are globally recognized as the best on a worldwide level. The symbiosis of this collaboration is reflected in the premium audio and aesthetics of the Symphony console speaker, luxury, and practicality merging to form a harmony. The speakers are placed along the stone walls, accentuating nature's charm with enchanting sounds.

The oval and oblong shapes, which can mostly be seen in the mirror designs in the kitchen, are used to soften the space and create a relaxing atmosphere. The kitchen, as well as the rest of the flat, is petite by nature, but it manipulates the spatial proportions to its advantage, the bar being a perfectly integrated element and representing the heart of the flat. The bar highlights the masculine energy with its sharp stone features and muted colours of the grey kitchen island. It's the ideal place to sip liquor and enjoy the display of quality selected textures, materials and furniture. Apart from its aesthetics, the kitchen holds value in its practicality as seen in the usage of space and elements arranged on both sides of the island.

The living room is enriched with spiritual tranquility of the incorporated zen garden. It is an airy space exuding leisure and comforting sounds of the water curtain wall, enabling the resident piece of mind. The space beautified by Covet Group chairs is made for an intimate night drinking, for romantic music and a glass of red wine. The lines of the space create a pleasure to sight and touch that melts into the peaceful notes pervading the rooms. The classical elements are best noticed in the simplicity of the bedroom, connected the bathroom with an enthralling atmosphere.

The bathroom is adorned in oval shapes of the bathtub and golden details, such as the chandelier, contrasting the dark background and complementing the Symphony console speaker. It captures the essence of The Vienna Flat and puts into harmony the musical, aesthetical, and practical elements forming into a perfectly orchestrated unity of pleasures to the senses.

-written by Nina Gruban